

Business Administration (BS): Business Analytics Concentration

Introducing the newest concentration at Poole College of Management: Business Analytics. In this dynamic field, students explore cutting-edge techniques to harness data for business success. From traditional statistics to advanced artificial intelligence (AI) methods, you will learn to collect, analyze and present data effectively to inform business decisions. Choosing the business analytics concentration will help you tap into the surging demand for career-ready graduates in corporate environments.

Why Business Analytics at NC State?

Poole College of Management stands out for its business analytics education and research excellence, consistently earning top rankings from U.S. News & World Report most recently as No. 1 in NC and No. 9 among public universities nationwide for undergraduate business analytics program. Developed by industry experts for maximum industry impact, our curriculum equips students with the skills, background and practical knowledge required to add value to the workforce from day one. Building upon this foundation of excellence, we've launched the Business Analytics Initiative, propelling the college even further as a hub for data analysis in business through education, research and thought leadership.
